Whether it is a simple routine service or a major accident repair, MaxiTRANS' Freighter/Maxi-CUBE national dealer network has built a strong and renowned reputation for providing Australia's best available repair and service support for trailers and vans.

Their expertise ranges from routine maintenance work through to completely rebuilding a rolled-over trailer or van. And it is this national level of value added support that separates the Freighter/Maxi-CUBE dealer network from all other trailer manufacturers and dealerships.

MaxiTRANS' dealers and specialist technicians are trained to provide customers large and small with the best possible solution for their smash repair or service. In particular, they specialise in roll-over repairs and rebuilds, fibreglassing, refurbishments, servicing and painting.

Staff have the benefit of factory training and access to the latest technical information to ensure any damaged trailer or van is specified with exactly the right components and repair methods to minimise the downtime and help operators get their equipment back on the road sooner.

The major benefit to customers having their trailer serviced or repaired by a MaxiTRANS dealer is that it will not only help keep the trailer performing like new, it will ensure the equipment stays on the road making money.

Workshop Manager for MaxiTRANS Repairs and Service in Hallam Victoria, Andrew Glenister has been helping customers with their repairs and service for over 25 years and in that time has been presented with numerous smash repair challenges.

"No operator or fleet manager ever prepares or plans for an accident, however as a result of our decades of experience, knowledge and factory backup, we are best positioned to assist every operator when we are called upon."

"Our specialist workshops are staffed by highly skilled staff who undertake minor or major repairs and servicing to all brands of vans and trailers including rigid bodies."

"We have often undertaken complete rebuilds on vans that have been written off after accidents, saving the owners a lot of money and usually getting them on the road sooner than waiting for a new van to be built. Customers are always happily surprised at what we manage to create from a wreck".

A major advantage that MaxiTRANS Repair and Service Hallam have over other repairers is the engineering support it receives from MaxiTRANS Manufacturing. Andrew explains that, "Having the original manufacturer of the trailer involved in the repair process ensures the trailer receives the best structural repairs. We have often taken a written off wreck and have turned it into a late model working trailer."

"As a demonstration of our expertise, the images attached to this story show a van wreck which we rebuilt using the latest extrusions so what originally was a 2002 model wreck, ended up looking like a new 2009 model but with a significantly reduced price tag."

In addition to the high quality repair and maintenance service offered, most dealerships, like MaxiTRANS Victoria Branch, also offer a 24 hours / 7 days mobile roadside breakdown service throughout their regions.

The Melbourne service van is equipped to provide emergency and routine service and has both gas and electric welding and cutting capability on board, including compressed air and electric tools powered by a portable generator. A range of spares is carried in the van including brake boosters and airbags.

The van also doubles as an onsite service van by arrangement with individual customers and this service generally does not attract a call out charge as it is pre planned.

With MaxiTRANS' Freighter/Maxi-CUBE Repair and Service Dealer network, operators get the complete package that includes the right advice with the right back up and support for complete peace of mind.
